House Passes $1,000 Boost For Expenses

LBJ Willing To Meet Halfway With Dirksen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says that if Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen wants a congressional leadership conference on Viet Nam, "the President will meet him more than halfway."

Mansfield said today in an interview he couldn't see "any harm" in the kind of bipartisan White House meeting his GOP counterpart urged Thursday in challenging administration credibility.

But he questioned whether any new light would be shed and echoed White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyer's defense of Johnson in saying "I think he has held more joint leadership meetings than any other President."

Implied in Dirksen's and House GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford's sharp assault on what they saw as a lack of administration candor was the issue of Republican support for Johnson's Viet Nam policies.

Ford, contending that a "consensus of no confidence is coming to pass" on administration domestic policies, said Republicans want to support the President "when he is either right or of the right intent."

But he contended neither Republicans nor Democrats in Congress can know "what is right or of right intent in the President's policies unless they have the facts upon which to base their judgments."

Dirksen complained that Johnson hadn't called a meeting of Republican and Democratic congressional leaders on Viet Nam since February — before the outbreak of political turbulence — and urged that he convene one immediately to clarify "the shape of things to come."

With such understanding, Dirksen said, the American people "will be better able to provide that unqualified support so necessary to the winning of a swift, secure and honorable peace."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson met for about 1½ hours Thursday night with chairman of 15 Senate committees. The White House conference apparently centered on the status of legislation and the Viet Nam situation.

There had been no further announcement of the meeting. Two Cabinet members attended — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, the latter apparently in his capacity as liaison man with Congress.

As the premier sent riot police into Hue, the failure of the Buddhist campaign was underlined by an announcement that Ky would fly to South Korea Monday to attend a conference of nine non-Communist nations.

Ky's announcement coincided with a declaration by the junta that it had conferred broad new powers on the premier to deal with South Viet Nam's chronic economic and financial problems.

Both announcements buttressed the general impression that the ruling generals considered themselves firmly entrenched despite weeks of agitation by the country's militant Buddhist minority to oust them.

Ky's office said the premier would address the three-day foreign ministers' meeting in Seoul, which opens Tuesday. Known as the Asia-Pacific ministerial conference, it will discuss ways in which the participants can develop closer economic and cultural ties.

County Remap Bill Approved

LANSING (AP) — Major legislation, will be under a minimum wage which is based partly on a piece work rate.

The new coverages will not take effect until next year, meaning summer resort operators will not have to comply until 1967.

The new law also will limit the amount of the minimum wage which can be discounted for tips from 40 per cent to 25 per cent. For example, a waitress would have to be paid 86 cents an hour instead of the presently allowable 69 cents.

The Senate approved and sent to Gov. George Romney a county apportionment measure which brings one-man, one-vote principles to boards of supervisors.

The final compromise with the House allows counties of less than 75,000 residents — 65 of the state's 83 counties — to be remapped by their present boards of supervisors.

If supervisors fail to develop a plan within 30 days, the job will go to a commission of the county prosecutor, clerk, treasurer and county chairman of each major political party. Such a commission will automatically reapportion the 18 larger counties.

Supervisors from the equal population districts will be elected in 1968. The size of boards must fall within these ranges:

For County population of under 5,001, up to 7 members; 5,002 to 10,000, up to 10; 10,001 to 25,000, up to 15; 25,001 to 50,000, up to 21; 50,001 to 100,000, up to 25; 100,001 to 250,000, up to 35.

The minimum wage bill expands coverage but does not increase the present $1.15 wage level.

Coverage will now apply to all employees whose employer has four or more workers anytime during the year — including seasonal employees. The lone exception is for summer camps.

Workers also will be covered as soon as they begin work, rather than after 13 weeks.

Farm workers, under earlier legislation, will be covered as soon as they begin work, rather than after 13 weeks.

Senate, House To Confer On Pay Raise Bill

LANSING (AP) — The House abandoned the legislative pay raise idea Thursday — at least temporarily — and voted next year's lawmakers a $1,000 hike in expense allowances.

The House passed, on the second try, a bill to raise expense allowances from their present $2,500 a year to $3,500.

The Senate refused to agree with this change in its previously approved pay raise measure and sent the bill to a conference committee — which is according to plan.

There were strong indications the compromise will end up about midway between the present salary of $30,000 and the once-proposed $35,000.

The bill, passed on a 57-43 vote by the House Thursday, provided for a $5,000 pay raise when it passed the Senate in April. It was passed the same day a special citizens committee recommended the hike.

The House Ways and Means Committee struck the pay raise. The expense hike was added in floor action.

The $1,000 increase was approved twice and turned down once in an almost comical switch of votes Thursday.

With the backing of Minority Leader Robert Waldron, R-Grosse Pointe, the motion of Majority Floor Leader J. Bob Traxler, D-Bay City, to increase expense allowances was adopted as an amendment to the Senate bill, 57-43. The amended bill, however, was defeated 53-48.

U.P. Voting
LANSING (AP) — Rep. Elmer Erlendson (D-Escanaba) did not vote Thursday on the $1,000 expense account increase approved for legislators Thursday.

James Constantini (D-Iron Mountain), Russell Hellman (D-Dollar Bay), Dominick Jacobelli (D-Negaunee) and Clayton Morrison (R-Pickford) voted against the bill.

The house then adjourned for dinner. The bill was reconsidered after dinner and passed. The final vote total was the same as that on the amendment to the bill — but the voters had switched.

Senate GOP Votes
On the final passage of the bill, only seven republicans joined 50 Democrats in approving the bill. Waldron had changed his vote.

The approval came after Rep. Joseph Swallow, R-Alpena, withdrew an amendment, adopted before the defeat of the bill, which would have required a new legislator to declare how much of the $10,000 salary he wanted to accept.

Mackinac Bridge Traffic Highest In May History

ST. IGNACE (AP) — Traffic in May was the highest for the month in the history of the Mackinac Straits Bridge, bridge chairman Prentiss Brown reported.

"This was probably one of the coldest and wettest months of May on record and I am sure the weather deterred a large number of bridge crossers, yet traffic was up five per cent and revenues increased 5.4 per cent, setting new records for the eighth consecutive month," Brown said.

There were 91,994 bridge crossings during the month compared to 87,631 in May of a year ago. Revenues for the month totaled $413,404 compared with $392,385 in May a year ago.

Truck traffic, Brown said, was up a healthy 10.2 per cent from May of 1965.

Fluoride Vote

DETROIT (AP) — Fluoridation of Detroit's drinking water, approved by voters last November, is returning to the Motor City's election ballot Nov. 8. A citizens group opposed to the proposal filed the required number of petition signatures Thursday. The vote last November was 191,285 to 186,687.

Police Squash Panama Riot

PANAMA (AP) — National Guardsmen used tear gas to disperse bands of rock-throwing youths who smashed street lights, turned in false fire alarms and littered the streets of Panama City Thursday night. The disorders have continued for several nights.

Earlier, soldiers in Colon, 38 miles to the northwest, hurled tear gas grenades to break up efforts by about 200 students to set up makeshift barricades in the downtown area.

The incident took place after more than 1,500 persons marched through Colon in a funeral procession for two students killed in rioting last Monday.

The rioting resulted from student protests over the unexplained killing of Juan Navas Pajaro, an ultra-leftist student leader.

House Finishes Budget Work

LANSING (AP) — The House completed its work on the 1966-67 budget Thursday.

Michigan State University failed to get authorization for a law school while the State Conservation Department received a legislative go-ahead to try to acquire a new park on the shores of Lake Michigan.

The last two bills to receive House approval were the $71 million capital outlay appropriation and the $230.5 million higher education spending program.

The contents of the capital outlay bill were shifted slightly but its over-all price tag remained at $71.1 million.

Added was $250,000 in planning money to enable the state to look into the feasibility of having a Michigan Pavilion at "Expo 67," a world's fair at Montreal next year.

Conservation funds were reshuffled to enable the department to acquire 1,200 acres on Lake Michigan near Benton Harbor-St. Joseph for the proposed Grand Mere State Park.

Asked $1 Million Damages

DETROIT (AP) — A striking suburban schoolteachers group brought a $1 million damage suit against its school board, charging board members conspired to threaten teachers with economic reprisals and blacklisting.

The suit demands $100,000 damages from each of 10 school officials and board members, Brown said.

The Crestwood district teachers dispute was one of several teacher-school board battles which recently have affected southeast Michigan schools at-

Paratroopers Fight Vietnamese Force

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. paratroopers battled a stubborn, dug-in North Vietnamese force for the fourth day in the central highlands today, while Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's government sent 400 Vietnamese riot policemen into the northern Buddhist stronghold of Hue.

An American military spokesman said 239 North Vietnamese had been killed in the fighting, which began before dawn Tuesday with a Communist attack on a small U.S. encampment. But the spokesman added: "The count undoubtedly will go much higher. Those people up there are more interested in killing North Vietnamese than in counting bodies."

U.S. losses were reported light over-all, but one platoon was badly mauled.

U.S. planes had flown 167 sorties so far in the battle, which erupted anew Thursday night in the dense jungles of Kontum province 280 miles north of Saigon. Pitted against units of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division's 1st Brigade, as it provided Communist infiltration routes near the Laotian border, were an estimated 900 North Vietnamese.

Fighting was reported heavy throughout the day and was still going on late this afternoon, the spokesman reported.

The size and determination of the enemy indicated the Communists might be moving to the offensive again after waiting futilely for the Buddhists to depose Ky.

As the premier sent riot police into Hue, the failure of the Buddhist campaign was underlined by an announcement that Ky would fly to South Korea Monday to attend a conference of nine non-Communist nations.

Ky's announcement coincided with a declaration by the junta that it had conferred broad new powers on the premier to deal with South Viet Nam's chronic economic and financial problems.

Both announcements buttressed the general impression that the ruling generals considered themselves firmly entrenched despite weeks of agitation by the country's militant Buddhist minority to oust them.

Observe Centennial:

Presbyterians Mark Historic Year

The First United Presbyterian Church of Escanaba was organized 100 years ago — but for two years before that one of the founders, Samuel Hart Selden, conducted a Sunday School in his home.

Back in 1864 when Selden was establishing the Sunday School, Escanaba was a pioneer town. The community on Sand Point had sprung up almost overnight with its selection as the terminal for docks.

Selden, a graduate of Yale, came to the Upper Peninsula in the employment of the Chicago & Northwestern Railway as Peninsula Division chief engineer, and superintended the building of the first three ore docks.

The Presbyterian Church, the first Protestant church in the community, will observe its centennial with appropriate services on Saturday and Sunday, June 11 and 12.

Special Program
There will be open house to the public from 1:30 to 4 p.m. on Saturday, featured by a display of art and antiques at the Church.

The centennial banquet will be held in the Immanuel Lutheran Church at 6 p.m. Saturday. Fred Fisher will be the toastmaster and a special program, "The First Hundred Years" will be presented by Dr. and Mrs. Norman Lindquist.

There will be Worship Services on Sunday in the Presbyterian Church; and a Sunday School pot luck picnic will be held at the south end of Ludington Park. A closing prayer service will be held at the Karas Memorial Bandshell.

The Presbyterian Historical Society with headquarters in Philadelphia reports that the Presbytery of Lake Superior met in Escanaba on July 25, 1886, and possibly at that meeting the Presbytery of the Escanaba congregation was formally organized.

Had 35 Members
The Rev. George W. Lloyd came to Escanaba from Rockaway, N. J., as the first pastor. A "church edifice" was built.

"The May, 1867, annual report of the Committee noted that Mr. Lloyd had been in Escanaba 12 months, and that the church had had eight conversions and added four members by examination and one by certificate," the Presbyterian Historical Society reported to Mrs. Robert Ham, who has compiled a centennial book for the Presbyterian Church as part of the observance.

"The first small place of worship" was constructed at 4th St. and 1st Ave. S., then Dousman and Wells Ave., on a site that was purchased in 1868.

The Rev. Lloyd left Escanaba in 1869 and by that date the church had a membership of 35.

The first manse was begun in the summer of 1866, built by the Rev. Lloyd. It is the present Buckbee residence at 512 Lake Shore Drive.

Hear Greetings
A new and larger church was built in 1872 — and the old one was moved across the street to serve as clubrooms for the boys affiliated with the church. There was tragedy that same year when the church's second pastor, the Rev. N. E. Pierson, suffered a hand injury while helping with construction. Blood poison "set in" and he died Sunday morning, May 19, 1872.

The congregation increased in number and by 1898 a larger church was needed. Two lots were purchased at the present site of the church and the new building was dedicated on Dec. 3, 1899.

The cornerstone of the church was laid by none other than Mrs. E. P. Royce, wife of Escanaba's unofficial "founder," postmaster, surveyor, and holder of many other public offices. One of the features of the

Mrs. Sullivan, Former Cornell Resident, Dies
Mrs. Robert Sullivan, the former Norma Ahti of Cornell, died May 27 in Las Vegas, Nev., where she had resided with her family for the past seven years. Mrs. Sullivan was born in Escanaba on Nov. 20, 1925.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ahti of Cornell Rte. 1.

Surviving besides her parents are her husband and three children, Patricia, Bonnie and Lorri; and seven sisters.

The funeral service, attended by Mr. and Mrs. Ahti and other members of the family, was held in Las Vegas with the Rev. Egbertson, pastor of the Calvary Lutheran Church, officiating. Burial was in Woodlawn Cemetery there.

U.P. Can Expand Income

Beef Industry Promising

Representatives of the Animal Husbandry Department, Michigan State University and U. P. county agricultural agents discussed the beef industry potential for the Upper Peninsula in a meeting in Escanaba recently chaired by Dr. Ron Nelson, head of the Animal Husbandry Department. Wilton Finley and Hugh Henderson, livestock specialists of the Department attended.

"The potential for expanding the beef enterprise in Michigan is beyond doubt," said Dr. Nelson. "We are importing meat into the state and exporting corn. This doesn't make very good sense to me."

There is need for more fed cattle in Michigan, he said. "In 1963 only 28% of the meat consumed in the state was produced and slaughtered in Michigan. Twenty-three per cent of our meat supply is shipped in live and 49% is shipped in as carcasses."

"To feed out more cattle in the state we need to produce more young feeder cattle. The Upper Peninsula and the northern half of the Lower Peninsula offer excellent opportunities for expanding the cow-calf program. Land that will produce pasture and hay is all that is necessary. Forage crops which include grasses and legumes do well in our cool climate.

"The fattening of animals will still be carried out where the corn is produced. At the present time most feed lots are using 400 bushels of corn and three tons of corn silage per steer to finish them out for market. It is expected that in the future more silage and less corn will be fed in the feed lot."

Feed lot farmers are going through rapid changes. Automation is the key word. In 1960 some 4,200 farmers fed out 90,000 head. In 1964 the number of farmers dropped to 2,200 but they increased the output to 162,000. The discussion noted that 300 farmers feed out 75% of the total number of cattle.

"How many brood cows must a farmer plan for in his farming program to make a decent income?" If the cow-calf program is providing a farmer his only income he should look for sufficient land to handle 150 to 200 cows, it was suggested. On many farms the program provides only a part of the income.

Nahma Schools Ask 5 Mills

The Nahma Township School District will ask voters to approve a levy of five mills for one year for operating costs at the election Monday.

Candidates for the School Board are the incumbents Al Pomeroy and Mrs. Turek for four year terms and Mrs. Opal Gearheart for one year, completing the unexpired term of Gene Hartman.

Reorganization of the new Board has been set for June 20.

Olsen & Flath Low Bidders

Olsen & Flath, Escanaba construction contractors, have been awarded a contract by the Flat Rock School District Board on their low bid of $107,800 to construct an addition to the Flat Rock School, reports Supt. Leo Brunelle.

Ian Ironsides of Warren Homes Co. architects presided at the opening of bids, assisted by Robert Jensen, secretary of the board.

The bidding was: Olsen & Flath, $107,800; Covell & Brosie, Iron Mountain, $110,610; R. G. Jener, Iron Mountain, $116,630; and Noah Piquette, Menominee, $129,000.

Harold Herrild of Menominee entered a bid of $97,888, which would have been low, but a telephone conversation with Herrild revealed an error of $10,550, said Brunelle, which increased his bid to $108,438 and the board agreed unanimously to release Herrild from his bid.

After this action the award to Olsen & Flath was voted.

Report Reveals:

Employees' Cars Using Customer Parking Spaces

About 70 per cent of the employees in Escanaba's downtown business district "are parking their cars in spaces which should be reserved for the customers," an employee parking survey reveals.

The results of that survey and other information relating to a progress report on Escanaba's planning project were presented by Thompson Dyke of Harland Bartholomew & Associates, to the Planning Commission at its meeting Tuesday in the City Hall.

A total of 900 employee parking survey forms were distributed with the cooperation of Escanaba businessmen. Dyke reported.

"Approximately 60 per cent have been returned, indicating eagerness of the employees to participate in the planning study," Dyke said.

Less Than Block

"The great majority of the employees drive their car to work and nearly half park their cars on the street, and 22 per cent in public parking lots."

"It appears that about 70 per cent are parking their cars in spaces that should be reserved for the customers."

"Eighty-eight per cent reported walking only one block or less to work from where they park their car. This adds to the downtown parking problem."

Present from the planning consultant firm besides Dyke were David Kennedy, as planner-in-charge of the Escanaba work, and Dan Coates, field representative assisting Kennedy. Dyke will continue to supervise the Escanaba job.

The contract of the City of Escanaba and the State with Harland Bartholomew & Associates for planning services has been approved. There will be state, federal and local participation in financing the planning program. The city's share is $3,764.

Trade Survey
The Planning Commission, with Chairman Dale Vinette presiding, heard from the planning consultants other reports of progress.

A trade area survey summary was presented, showing the extent of the area in which the people rely upon Escanaba for a portion of their trade.

"About 50 per cent shop once a week, while 32 per cent use Escanaba two or three times a week. Residents contacted indicated that about 90 per cent of their purchases are made in Escanaba."

"Persons interviewed expressed the desire to have a greater selection of merchandise from which to choose, and suggested the need for additional retail stores. Suggestions also made were to modernize the downtown, and acquire some buildings for parking space and renewal."

Industrial View
The industrial survey summary revealed that the 12 firms participating indicated they employ 2,126 persons. Not all results are in from four additional firms.

"Three of those reporting employ over 100 persons, with Harnischfeger Corp. employing 1,150, Mead Corp. 615, and Birds Eye Veneer 160."

"They are satisfied with the availability of fuel, power and water, but two-thirds felt the cost was higher than it should be. None thought that they were frosely out of line. Most were pleased with their present sites and land available for expansion. All were pleased with the social and religious opportunities, educational facilities, availability of housing, and the City's attitude toward industry."

Dyke reported to the Commission that base maps are 95 per cent completed, that an existing land use map will be presented to the Commission at its next meeting, and that a tentative land use plan will also be ready at that time.

Garbage Disposal
Kenneth Tushak, superintendent of the city's public works department, reported to the Commission on changes in the state law requiring sanitary land fill for disposing of garbage.

The present open dump must be abandoned and a new site for sanitary landfill provided. Several sites were suggested to the Commission for consideration.

The problem of the Municipal Dock, where a weakening of the fill beneath the outer roadway has caused the city to close the drive, was also presented to the Commission.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan voted Thursday for the "truth in packaging" bill sponsored by Sens. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., and Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash. ## Stephenson Asks Millage To Keep State Aid Level

STEPHENSON—The annual school election for the Stephenson Consolidated School District will be held Monday in precincts in Lake, Holmes, Daggett, Stephenson and Ingallston Townships.

Polls open at 7 A.M. and close at 8 p.m.

Herbert Corey and John Palmer, incumbents, are seeking reelection to four-year terms as trustees of the Board of Education.

Electors will also vote on a proposal to levy 2.5 mills for one year to satisfy the minimum requirement of ten mills to qualify for full state aid. The Menominee County Tax Allocation Commission allocated 7.5 mills to the school district. An additional 2.5 mills is required to make a total of 10 mills as required by State Law to receive full state aid.

Failure to levy 10 mills locally would cost the Stephenson Consolidated School District about $36,000 in state aid during 1966-67.

Absentee Ballots are available from Herbert Corey, secretary of the Board of Education, before 2 p.m. Saturday.

U.P. Tourist Officers Quit

Directors of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association will meet at Jack's Restaurant, Rapid River at 1:30 p.m. Thursday, June 30 to elect officers to succeed those who resigned in a letter posted May 27 at Iron Mountain and to adopt a budget for the next year.

The Association's annual meeting is usually in October, but the mass resignation of its officers forced the earlier action.

Differences over budgeting between President Eugene Carollo of Iron Mountain and his fellow officers and Kenneth Dorman, secretary-manager of the Tourist Association led to the resignations. Also resigning were Jack Miller, Rapid River, vice president; and James Smaby, Iron Mountain, treasurer, but Miller said today that it was "very possible" that he would be a member of the new slate of officers elected at the June 30 membership and directors meeting.

Miller said that he went along with the resignations of Carollo and Smaby to clear the air and permit a fresh start with a clean slate for the Tourist Association.

State Agency
Dorman said that Tourist Association finances are not in trouble or bad shape and that he regretted the differences between himself and Carollo over policy and was most anxious that the public did not lose confidence in the Tourist Association and restrict its support of it, because it is the Upper Peninsula's agency for participation in the State of Michigan's $960,000 tourism program.

"People not familiar with the Tourist Association or the old U. P. Development Bureau (which it succeeded) can look at a single phase of its program and project it, without knowledge of the state matching funds, (currently $44,000 a year) and come up with a pessimistic forecast of finances," said Dorman. "This hurts us rather than helps us raise money."

Ad Fund Separate
"We have had no problem in our advertising fund since the Tourist Association was reorganized in 1960. It is in a separate bank account. This is where the state and local government money for the Tourist Association goes and there is no trouble with this account. We usually have a budget of $60,000 to $75,000 a year here, not including the $35,000 a year from the Mackinac Bridge Authority. Advertising budgets from this fund have run around $100,000 for the last three years.

"Our problem is in the administrative budget and this has to be supported by local business. This administrative fund is not really in bad shape. All the supply people are current or within 45 to 50 days with the exception of Clifford Liberty (Association staff salesman) and myself and bills that date to our first years of operation after reorganization, when we had to buy back our office furniture (after collapse of the Development Bureau.)

Old Bills
"We paid $3,000 on our Marquette rent bill last year and with normal income next year we will budget to retire half these old bills. They amount to about $15,000 for staff pay, rent and legal services."

"We are going to wind up this year on June 30 in as good or better position by $6,000 or $7,000, despite about $5,000 extra expense in moving from Marquette to Iron Mountain last year and running a dual operation in both cities for many months.

"We cut our bills by one third last year and we have had a ratio of assets to liabilities of two to one for the past two years. While we may have accounts payable at times, we would be in worse shape if we had $5,000 in the bank and no promotional literature to mail out." The administrative budget is about $56,000 a year.

Services Expand
Dorman said that his commitments to supporters of the Tourist Association made it impossible for him to follow some of the budget directives of Carollo and that he found proposed travel allowances unrealistic.

When the UMTA was organized in 1960, the State Tourist Council, in which it represents the Upper Peninsula, had a tourist advertising budget of $119,000 a year. In 1966 it was $438,000 and requests to UMTA for U. P. tourist literature had increased 6 times. UMTA has kept pace with these requests despite high literature and mailing costs, said Dorman.

How're We Doing?

There are a lot of ways to look at farming. The obvious one, is to look at it the way the farmer does. He's the man most immediately concerned with making his living in it.

But others have interest in it, too. The community has an interest in the welfare of its farm industry, because it remains a big part of the economy and because we depend upon it for our food.

Farming in America has been in a turmoil of change which has erased millions of farms and shifted most of the population of the country from the farm-lands to the cities.

The latest farm census results have just been reported and they show the state of agriculture in the Upper Peninsula in 1964 and compare it with conditions five years before in 1959.

In terms of farm income, 6 of the 15 U.P. counties lost and 9 gained.

The losers were Alger, Baraga, Iron, Keweenaw, Marquette and Schoolcraft counties.

The gainers were Chippewa, Delta, Dickinson, Gogebic, Houghton, Luce, Mackinac, Menominee and Ontonagon.

The simplicity of gain or loss doesn't really mean much in an evaluation of the U.P.'s agriculture. Statistically the gain or loss might be slight and even in the case of a gain there might be a serious condition of deterioration.

The most meaningful figure, in the census, perhaps, is the average income per farm. It varied greatly from low to high and from county to county and Dickinson, which reported that it has only 197 farms left, ranked highest in it with $9,151, compared with $4,186 five years ago. The small number of its farms, of course, helped its big earners raise the county average.

Menominee County, on the other hand, which has always been the agricultural leader of the Upper Peninsula—it had 1,082 farms in 1959 and 923 in 1964—averaged only $5,865 per farm, up from $3,888 in 1959. This put it in fourth position in income and here the reverse of Dickinson's situation had the large number of farms with many marginal operations pull down the average.

But while Menominee was making a poor relative showing in average farm income gain compared with Dickinson's of more than 100 per cent, Menominee increased its total farm income from $4.1 million to $5.1 million while Dickinson went from $1.1 million to $1.8 million.

In second place was Delta County (improved from No. 3) in average farm income with $6,287, compared with $4,026 five years earlier. It had dropped from 612 to 526 farms and boosted income from $2.5 million to $3.3 million.

Marquette, with the largest land area of any county (but devoting only 3.6 per cent of it to farming compared with 31.5 per cent in Menominee because of accent on mineral industry), was in third position in average farm income with $5,875, up from $3,565 from 139 farms, 98 fewer than 5 years previously.

The public impression of farming as a declining industry because of the sharply reduced number of farms and of persons living on farms is an error, of course. There is more farm business than ever before, but it is going to fewer and better farms.

All Upper Peninsula economic planning should encourage the continuation, the expansion and the improvement of our agricultural enterprise. It has never been as efficient as it is today. It has never paid its best operators as much as it is paying its best today. And even overall, with a decline of 1,093 farms in 5 years, it has managed to add $3.2 million in income.

That ain't hay, brother. The population pinch gives our farmlands new values and no matter what the developments in automation, urbanization, or diet it seems very unlikely that America's tending millions and its dependents overseas will stop eating. And while they eat there's farm business. Only question is: Who gets it?

U. P. farming is changing but not expiring and it remains one of the more promising prospects for future growth.

The Doctor Says:

Cysts Can Be A Nuisance

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandt

Q — Two years ago I developed a lump on my thigh. After a few months some pus came out and the lump disappeared but later it came back again. Could this be a malignant growth? What is the best treatment?

A — From your description I would suspect that you have a benign cyst of some kind. These often become infected, discharge their contents and then fill up again. If you can protect your cyst from injury and infection it should not give you any trouble. If it becomes a nuisance it should be removed.

Q — My husband has had four wens removed. What causes them? Are they malignant?

A — A wen or sebaceous cyst is not malignant. It is caused by an obstruction of one of the oil glands in the skin but what causes the obstruction is not known.

Q — Could palpitation, nervousness, stiff joints, soreness of the breasts, spells of chilliness, a burning of the soles of the feet, tingling of the hands and a coated tongue be menopausal symptoms?

A — Palpitation and nervousness are usually due to emotional causes. If you are overly worried about the menopause that could aggravate these symptoms. Stiffness of the joints may follow bursts of unaccustomed exercise or, like the menopause, the stiffness may be a natural consequence of aging. Keeping yourself physically fit is one way to minimize this symptom.

Q — What is meant by the following: diabetes mellitus, cholelithiasis with calculi and cholecystectomy?

A — Diabetes mellitus is sugar diabetes which is much more common than diabetes insipidus in which there is no sugar in the urine.

Cholelithiasis is an inflammation of the gall bladder and calculi are stones — in this case, gallstones.

Cholecystectomy is an operation in which the gall bladder is removed.

Committees Meeting Saturday

Deer Hunt Advisor Windup

The experiment in having advisory committees counsel the Michigan Department of Conservation experts on deer management is moving toward completion of its first year of activity.

The Deer Advisory Committee for the Menominee, Dickinson, Iron County Conservation District will hold its last meeting of three at the Dickinson Hotel in Iron Mountain starting at 8 a.m. Saturday.

The committee devoted its second meeting to an extensive field trip to see conditions affecting deer in the three county district. The outing was typical of those taken by the other district advisory committees in Northern Michigan and its deliberations are also typical of those of the other groups.

The group met at the Stephenson equipment station of the Conservation Department May 21 and made its first four stop at the Hayward-North Lake marsh where Ivan Thomson, district biologist, pointed out winter deer yarding areas.

On the South Fox Truck Trail a stop was made on land of Col. Francis Vetter, U.S. Air Force, where almost all browse within reach of deer had been eaten out. There was little or no reproduction of cedar or other species.

Some committee members suggested cutting should be done on these lands by the Conservation Department to feed the deer, but it was pointed out that these lands are privately owned. Actually, Menominee County has the most active timber cutting program of any of Michigan's 83 counties.

If any more cutting were to be done in the deer yarding areas it might conceivably feed a few more deer for a few years, committee members were told, but it would destroy the cover which protects deer from bad weather. What effect this might have on deer yarding habits wasn't clear.

At the Banat deer yard conditions like those in the Cedar River yard were found. All cedar within reach had been eaten out. This is a famed deer yard which once supported a large herd.

An auto-killed three year old doe was used to demonstrate how biologists autopsy to determine the cause of death.

Noon stop was at the Wildwood Restaurant, Hermansville for lunch.

Conservation Officer Dwaine Wenzel explained a completely browsed out area on the Alfred Tower Road in the Ford River Yard. This is a hardwood side-hill with all trees cut down by Conservation Department workers to provide deer food. Biologists explained that the desirable foods are gone and that only marginal foods remains and that they are stunted and clumpy. Balsam firs are eaten by deer only in emergencies, but in this yard the balsams had been browsed as high as the deer could reach.

Menominee County's deer herd is healthy and large, but department biologists said the herd will likely decrease in size whether or not there are any deer hunts, because the deer yards winter shelter and food areas will not continue to support the present numbers of deer.

Q — What is meant by the following: diabetes mellitus, cholelithiasis with calculi and cholecystectomy?

A — Diabetes mellitus is sugar diabetes which is much more common than diabetes insipidus in which there is no sugar in the urine.

Cholelithiasis is an inflammation of the gall bladder and calculi are stones — in this case, gallstones.

'Soapy' Pulls Hard

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — With Michigan's Democratic race for a U. S. Senate nomination just heating up, former Gov. G. Mennen (Soapy) Williams has jumped ahead so strongly that his young rival, Detroit's Mayor Jerome Cavanagh, needs a massive burst to have any hope of catching him.

A contender for office for the first time since 1958, Williams at 55 is campaigning with furious energy. On a recent, fairly typical day, he zoomed off from his Grose Pointe home at 4:30 a. m. and returned at 11:30 p. m.—having made 15 campaign stops in suburban Oakland County along the way.

"I hardly think he's ready for a wheelchair," says an aide in answer to contentions that Soapy is droop-shouldered and over-the-hill. His "rest days" are given over to four-mile hikes along the shores of Lake St. Clair, and the firing off of countless memos to his staff.

Williams' list of endorsements is a bulging roster embracing much of Michigan labor, many top Negro leaders, ethnic groups and others. His crowds at shopping centers are generally big. A Republican who saw a particularly huge outdoor pouring thought a shooting had drawn the shoppers.

Grayed at the temples, still wearing his trademark bow ties, the rangy Williams is—contrary to some reports—months ago—easily recognized by young and old wherever he goes.

But the biggest thing going for him is the evidently durable fabric of old loyalties. To many labor people and other Democratic activists, Soapy is "Mr. Democrat," the man who built the Democratic party and, through 12 years as governor, took it to glory in Michigan. Says one source:

"There's a feeling that Old Soap has earned this one, that this one belongs to him."

To combat this quite widespread sentiment that Williams deserves a sort of political "Oscar," the 37-year-old Cavanagh is trying to portray him as a man of the past, last year's model, a stand-patter who is stale on the issues and offers the voters nothing but a hand-shake and a "remember me?"

The vigorous mayor, just plunging into heavy effort after a three weeks' tour of Europe, presents himself as a driving, Kennedy-style political modern, fresh and flexible in his foreign affairs outlook, equipped by current experience to grapple successfully with the great domestic dilemmas on the urban front.

Here and there, observers' antennae pick up signs of posture registers to some degree. One who recently heard some labor leaders in a private setting concluded that their support of Williams was "more out of duty than joy." He felt they were straining for reasons to be against the attractive Cavanagh.

In his bid for higher status in Michigan's issue-oriented Democratic party, the mayor has taken a dovetail stance on Viet Nam. It remains to be seen whether this will have broad appeal when set beside Williams' middle-range position close to President Johnson's.

Though Cavanagh really is hardly under way as an "outsider" campaigner, most Michigan appraisers think he will try to beat Williams "inside Eight Mile Road"—the Detroit city border. And they doubt it will work.

Williams' apparent grip on Negro support is a principal reason. Cavanagh's two mayoralty elections were founded on overwhelming Negro backing, and he would need it this time to help offset Williams' far better name-state outside.

"But Hastings Street (a main Negro thoroughfare in Detroit) was always a big Williams beat," comments a veteran appraiser. "And more recently he's made Africa another Hastings street."

The reference, of course, was to Williams' five years as assistant secretary of state for African affairs.

Despite some outspoken resentment among certain Democratic leaders at Cavanagh's having the temerity to run against their old hero, the mayor is widely hailed in many Democratic quarters for his recognized successes in Detroit's urban cauldron. But he scorns their view of him as a "comer" who can wait for another day.

Dismissing the governorship as a "housekeeping job," he wants the Senate. His bright promise probably would give him the nomination easily if his rival were anyone but the much-remembered old war-horse with the bow tie.

The art of pottery making took 400 years for each 100 miles it traveled in its slow spread in Stone Age Europe.

Ann Landers

Except For First Yes You'd Be In No Spot

Dear Ann Landers: Every community has its quota of chiselers who bum rides to work from the friendly neighbor.

They always have a fancy assortment of excuses for not driving their own cars but they fol no one. They are simply saving money on gas, wear and tar on their tires, wear sometimes parking money.

The other day I had such a character in my car—fifth time that week. What started out as a light drizzle turned into a cloudburst. The visibility was zero and we nearly had an accident. Fortunately, we arrived at our destination without incident.

The office manager, hearing me tell about the close call, said, "I never take my neighbors to work in the morning—I don't want the responsibility. If a passenger is hurt he could sue the socks off you. I've seen it happen."

Someone else said that if he had a car he would make the passengers sign a piece of paper relieving the driver of all legal responsibility, in case of an accident.

Would such a piece of paper be valid? Does it make sense to you?—MR. ACCOMMODATOR

Dear Mr.: A signed statement absolving the driver of responsibility in case of an accident may or may not be valid—depending on the state you live in. If you were to ask the free loaders to sign such an agreement, it might discourage them from bumming rides.

I assume you are a prudent driver so this won't apply to you, but: The passenger who rides with a careless driver just because it's free should get his head examined and sometimes does—in the hospital after the accident.

Dear Readers: Ten lashes with a wet noodle won't do this time. That would be letting me off much too lightly.

I refer to the counsel I offered "Redding Rose"—the woman who said she could not get up before a group and give her name and address without shaking for half an hour. My advice: "If there is a Toastmasters' Club in your town, join it."

Well dear folks, if Rose makes the grade, she'll be the first woman who ever did. The Toastmasters' Club is for men only.

I should have told her to join the ToastMISTRESS' Club.

Club. Today my face is redder than any Rose in Redding. —ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: Help please My husband is in the Navy and this is the first time we have lived out of Navy housing.

Every few days some neighbor asks me to buy eggs, butter, milk, cigars, coffee and what not—because I can get these commodities for a lot less at the Navy commissary than she pays in the supermarket. I hate to say no, because I go every few days for my own groceries, and everyone knows it. However, if I am caught buying for my neighbors I will lose my commissary privileges.

Please print my letter so my neighbors will see it and stop asking me to break the rules. Thank you. —NAVY WIFE

Dear Wife: Here's your letter, but don't expect miracles. You are more at fault than your neighbors. If you had not said yes the first time you wouldn't be in this spot now. CUT IT OUT!

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, gives authoritative and complete information on how to plan a wedding. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35c in coin.

St. George's To Observe Corpus Christi

BARK RIVER — The parishioners of St. George Church will commemorate the celebration of the Feast of the Sacred Body of Christ (Corpus Christi) on Sunday with special devotions offered to the Blessed Sacrament throughout the morning.

The ceremony of Exposition will take place before the 8 a. m. Mass and the Blessed Sacrament will remain exposed until the Benediction with the Blessed Sacrament after the 11 a. m. Mass.

Special Eucharist music will be prepared for congregational singing by parish organists, Mrs. Edwin Bergman, Christine Nault and Beth Knaut. Parishioners are invited to come early to Mass and to remain after each Mass so that the Blessed Sacrament will never be without adorners. A double genuflection should be made upon entering and leaving the church except after the last Mass.

Members of the Sodality and Altar boys will provide a special Guard of Honor throughout the morning.

The principal celebration of the institution of the Blessed Eucharist occurs on Holy Thursday, but because the day is so immediately followed by the sadness of Good Friday, the church sets aside another day after Easter, Ascension and Pentecost when more emphasis can be given to the great joy engendered by the events that took place at the Last Supper. This past Thursday was the Feast of Corpus Christi, but in most parishes it is more solemnly celebrated on the Sunday following so that a greater number of the People of God can participate.

Karen H. Olson Bride Of Lee Lane Inman

Bethany Lutheran Church in Escanaba, its altars adorned with vases of white gladioli, white mums and carnations, was the setting Saturday, June 4 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon for the wedding of Miss Karen H. Olson and Lee Lane Inman. The Rev. Dr. Walfred E. Nelson officiated at the double ring nuptials. Providing traditional organ music for the ceremony was Miss Bonny Peterson and soloist for the wedding, Conrad Beck, sang "O Perfect Love," and "The Wedding Prayer."

Church pews were marked with white ribbons and lemon foliage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Olson of 1901 S. 23rd St., Escanaba and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Lane Inman, 2103 W. F. Ave., Kalamazoo.

Silk Organza
The bride, escorted down the white carpeted aisle on the arm of her father, was attired in a floor length gown of white silk organza fashioned with an oval neckline and elbow length sleeves with inserts of Viennese lace. The sheath skirt of the gown highlighted with Viennese lace inserts was styled with a detachable chapel train.

White satin slippers, a pearl necklace and wrist length gloves enhanced her attire. A crown of crystals and pearls held her fingertip veil of illusion and she carried a cluster of white orchids with small poms and cascading stephanotis with ivy foliage.

Honor attendant for the bride was Miss Beverly Kauss of Ewen, Mich., and bridesmaids were Penny Olson of Camarillo, Calif., Barbara Bonella, Wakefield and Delight Carter of Ishpeming. Miss Kay Nelson of Escanaba was junior bridesmaid.

Crystal Gowns
They were attired in floor length sheath gowns of pink and white crystallet styled with empire waistlines banded in moss green velvet ribbon with streamers extending to the hemline. The elbow length sleeves of the gowns featured stand off ruffles caught with moss green ribbon and wrist length gloves completed their attire.

Their headpieces were of pink crystals and pearls and were fashioned similar to the bride's and held shoulder length matching veils. They carried cascading bouquets of pink tinted garcia poms with pink bountiful roses and ivy.

Mary Elizabeth Olson of Escanaba was the flower girl and she wore a floor length dress of pink and white crystallet styled like the bridesmaid's only with a bouffant skirt. Her headpiece was a tiara of pink tinted carnations and she carried a basket of pink sweetheart roses and pink tinted mums.

Serving as best man for the wedding was Arlyn Rice of Kalamazoo and seating the guests were, Carlton Nelson of Escanaba, Thomas Clarage, Gladstone and Daniel McDermott of Kalamazoo. Kim Nelson of Escanaba was junior usher.

Reception
A reception for over 200 guests was held at the Dells Supper Club from 5:30 to 8 p.m. and centering the buffet table was an arrangement of white gladioli and poms. Spring green grasses graced the cake and punch tables.

Assisting at the reception were the following friends of the bride from St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing: Bonnie Wizer, Bonny West, Judy Cox, Diane Trembley and Sandy Luttinen.

The rehearsal dinner was held at Marco's Starlight Room Friday evening with 112 guests attending.

Centering the bridal table was an arrangement of white gladioli, snapdragons and yellow glory roses with white love birds perched on manzanita branches.

Mothers' Attire
For attending the wedding and reception, the mother of the bride wore a three piece silk brocade suit of light chartreuse green with gold jewel buttons, white accessories and a white mink scarf. She was presented a light green cybidium corsage.

Mrs. Inman chose a pink silk suit with matching shoes and veiled hat and a corsage of pink frill roses completed her attire. Mrs. Rose Olson, grandmother of the bride, wore a mint green silk suit with white accessories and a corsage of white frill roses.

The newlyweds are honeymooning in New York and the Pocono's of Pennsylvania and upon their return will reside in Gladstone until August, when the new Mrs. Inman will graduate from St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing.

Mr. Inman is now studying in the gymnastic competitive field and is also affiliated with the Clarage Fon Company of Kalamazoo.

Canham Named Church Leader

BOSTON — Erwin D. Canham became the new president of the Christian Science Church today at its Centennial-year annual meeting here.

Simultaneously, construction workers one block away were beginning land clearance for the religion's dramatic new expansion of its headquarters area, known as the Mother Church, First Church of Christ, Scientist.

These were the climactic events in this year's observance of the 100th anniversary of the beginnings of Christian Science under the leadership of Mary Baker Eddy in 1866.

The annual meeting brought the biggest attendance in the Church's history. An estimated 15,000 people were on hand. Mr. Canham, famed Journalist and editor in chief of the Christian Science Monitor, will serve as president for one year while continuing his Monitor duties. He came to the meeting directly from a major world speaking tour with a non-denominational public address on "The Spiritual Revolution."

"Civilization stands at one of its great crises, perhaps the greatest and most dangerous yet encountered," said Mr. Canham. "False confidence has brought society close to disaster," he said, and summed up three major challenges that must be faced: "destruction of civilization by nuclear warfare . . . unchecked population growth, leading to famine . . . moral destruction of society through sensuality and licentiousness."

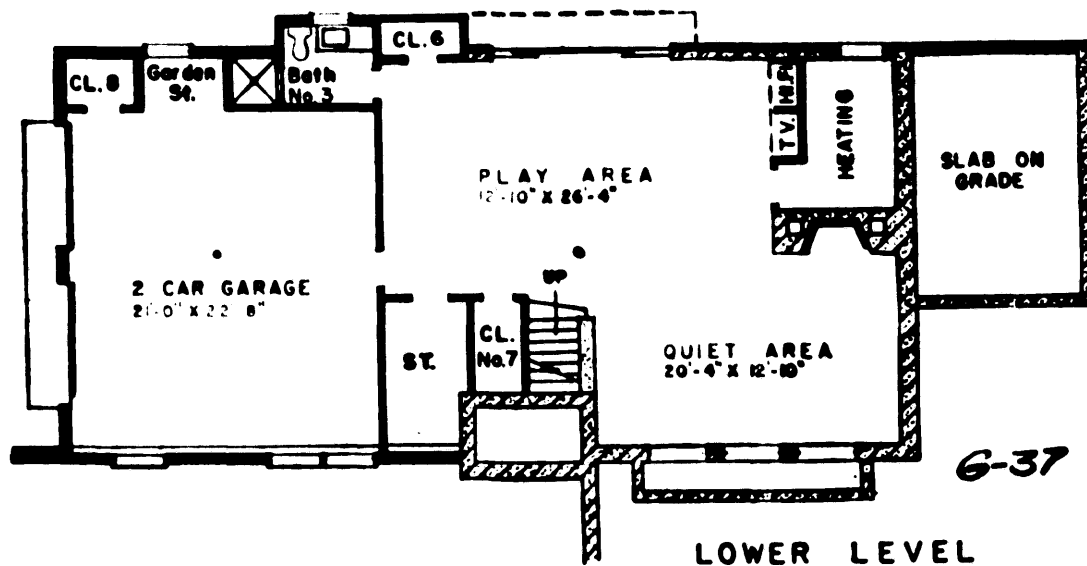

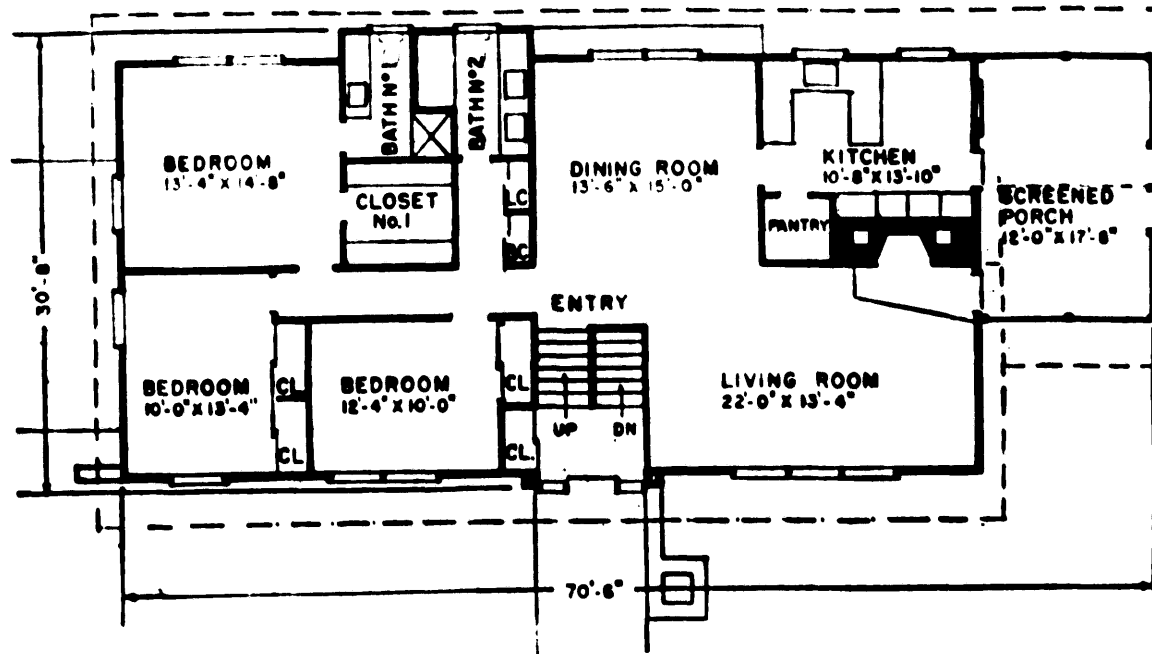

These challenges "are to be met successfully nowhere except in human consciousness," he declared.

The Mississippi River has a flow 177 times that of the Thames.

Plank And Beam Modern

PLANK AND BEAM: Behind the neat appearance of this contemporary exterior is the old-fashioned, informal charm of plank and beam construction, with its widely-spaced structural members, sloping cathedral ceilings and overall appearance of openness.

FLOOR PLANS: Bi-level construction places living area of the house higher than it ordinarily would be, but raises lower level enough to make it suitable for practical use; these plans show effective use of such an arrangement.

By ANDY LANG

Plank and beam construction offers potential savings in materials and labor. That's why it has been used for so many hundreds of years in the building of large barns—and why it is getting increasing attention in residential home design.

Briefly, the plank-and-beam system calls for the use of heavier structural members spaced farther apart than regular construction, with conventional ceiling beams conspicuous by their absence. Because of this, all rooms, except baths and kitchen, have sloping cathedral ceilings, giving an air of spaciousness and permitting decorator magic.

In the latest House of the Week, architect Caleb Hornbostel has placed plank and beam construction within a trim, contemporary exterior. He also has taken it out of the ordinary with a bi-level or raised ranch design. In effect, this is a one-story house raised out of the ground sufficiently to allow for recreational areas and a garage in what normally would be the basement. This places the living and sleeping portions of the home on a single floor a few feet above ground level. He also has taken it out of the ordinary with a bi-level or raised ranch design. ### G-37 STATISTICS

Design G-37 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, screened porch, three bedrooms and two baths on the main floor for a total of 1635 square feet. These figures do not include the lower level of this raised ranch. On that level are a two-car garage, a third bath, large recreational areas and plenty of space for utilities. The house of plank and beam construction, has more closets and storage sections than most homes of larger size. The over-all dimensions are 70' 6" by 30' 8".

The living room of Design G-37, to the right of the entry, is well-proportioned, with a corner fireplace wall. Next to this restful zone is a screened, side porch, which also is accessible from the kitchen. The latter, large enough to accommodate three windows, has a huge pantry that should delight the lady of the house. The adjoining dining room can be reached from the kitchen, the living room or directly from the entry stairway. Incidentally, the double windows in the dining room are typical of those found in houses of plank and beam construction: large, bold and handsome. Both the living room and the dining room gain extra visual space because of the manner in which they are positioned. At one point, there is a vista of nearly 27'.

To the left of the entryway are three bedrooms, two baths and an abundance of closets—seven of them. One of the closets is a 7-footer in the master bedroom, allowing plenty of room for "his" and "hers" sections.

On the lower level are what the architect has called "play" and "quiet" areas, but which actually can be used for any purpose desired. The floor plans show how really spacious this section is, with a storage room, closets, an extra bath with stall shower, and a stone fireplace similar to that in the living room. Either of the fireplaces is, of course, optional. On the same level is an oversized two-car garage, with still more closet and storage space.

Boa Constrictor Taken From Car On NMU Campus

Northern Michigan University campus in Marquette is scene today of a boa constrictor hunt.

The big snake, five feet long and weighing 15 pounds, is believed to have been stolen, not escaped from a station wagon on the campus Wednesday night.

It was in the car of Richard Link, Milwaukee freshman, who with fellow freshmen Harold Cedarberg of Saginaw and Mark Leebog of Detroit had brought the snake from a biology class experiment.

It was to have been returned to Lower Michigan this week, but was missing from the box in which it had been placed in Link's car Thursday morning. It was reported missing to police until Thursday afternoon. A vent window of the wagon had been forced to gain entry. The warm weather snake is not expected to survive the cold of the Lake Superior shore area if it is loose, but it is believed by police to have been stolen.

Escanaba Area Offered Job Aid

The Escanaba Area expects a rush of student requests for jobs that will be largely nonexistent unless the area cooperates in a federal government College Work Study Program, says Ray LaPorte, director of the Community Action Agency office here for Menominee, Delta and Schoolcraft counties.

Outside Escanaba the program is going well, said LaPorte, but it lags here and with college students returning home for the summer he expects many requests for jobs. His office has about 20 applications for jobs already "and very few jobs."

LaPorte explained that the federal government will pay 90 per cent of the cost of providing jobs for the students. It will cost local government units, churches, and other non-profit agencies which wish to employ students from July 1 for 8 weeks only $7.10 a week to provide one job. This is 10 per cent of the cost of paying $1.25 an hour for a 40-hour week.

"There are many agencies eligible to participate in this program," said LaPorte. "Churches are eligible if the work is non-sectarian and not religious. No work for the program can displace regular workers. Most of the young people seeking jobs have scholarships, but need more money to attend college and this program is intended to help them work and save in the summer toward their schooling."

In This Corner

with Roy Crandall

How can you explain the death of a baseball league such as the Waubung circuit that has been a part of the Escanaba area sports picture for so many years? ... The league, seriously ill in recent seasons, finally bit the dust this week when only two teams were represented at an organization meeting. ... As it is obviously impossible to operate the league with only two teams, officials decided to discontinue the Waubung program for at least this season.

What caused the once flourishing league to fold after some 20 years of continuous operation? ... It's simply a sign of the times. ... If you don't believe it, take a close look at the Escanaba Softball Association program which is headed for the same end unless something drastic happens. ... And then remember the other sports programs that formerly lived the local scene—such as the Escanaba Bears senior baseball team, the Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves tournaments, Escanaba Hawks senior hockey team, independent basketball and so on down the line. ... All are a thing of the past, faded into sports history.

When we call the death of the Waubung League a sign of the times, we refer to the drastic change in recreation habits of young people and adults today as compared to 10 and 15 years ago. ... This is the day of television watching, picnics, cottages and camps, auto travel and other signs of luxury in recreation that were unknown in former years. ... It's getting harder every year to find adults with the time and inclination to manage Little League and Babe Ruth baseball teams. ... The lack of adult interest was a major factor in the failure of the Waubung League this spring.

There are other factors, of course, and one of them involves the young people who make up the teams and leagues in various sports. ... Kids have too much to do these days. ... They need jobs to finance their car payments. ... They need summer employment to help finance their college educations. ... They don't have to walk or run anymore. ... Everybody has to have "wheels" or you're nobody.

The change in recreation habits has had an effect on young and old alike. ... Nobody has time to go out to Memorial Field to watch the softball league games anymore. ... And if they did, they would have a hard time recognizing the players and, in some cases, the game itself. ... Example: One American League game this week resulted in a 35-7 score after four innings.

So the Waubung League died this week. ... Every possible effort was made to prolong its life, but the end was inevitable. ... Interest in baseball for boys of American Legion age is just not great enough to produce even a four-team league in the area. ... Will the league ever be revived? ... We seriously doubt it.

Tigers Take Win Streak Into Series With Yanks

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Tigers were in fine shape for the opener of a New York Yankees series tonight thanks to a nifty stormy weather pitching performance by Dave Wickersham.

The tall right-hander outlasted five Boston Red Sox pitchers Thursday as he posted a 5-1 decision to run the Tigers winning streak to five games.

It was poetic justice that Wickersham survived rain, wind and a shaky start in going the distance for the first time since Sept. 14 last season.

His last time out against the Red Sox was under the same type of bad weather conditions at Boston April 20. Wickersham twisted his knee on the mound that day and had been below par since, despite heat treatments, exercise and some doctoring.

"My right knee gave me a lot of trouble since then but maybe all that trouble is behind me," he said happily in the Tiger dressing room.

The weatherman threw everything he had at the Tigers. The start of the game was delayed seven minutes by one storm and play was suspended in the second inning and again in the fifth for a total delay of 49 minutes.

A leadoff single by third baseman Rico Petrocelli, followed by a wild pitch and a base on balls gave the Red Sox two base runners in a hurry. A fast doubleplay and an infield out got him out of the jam with the Red Sox getting their only run of the day.

"I was just about ready to make a pitching change," said Tiger acting manager Bob Swift.

That was the only inning in which Wickersham got into real trouble as he scattered five hits, struck out six and walked only three.

The five Red Sox pitchers had trouble getting the ball over they gave up 10 walks and when they did the Tigers hit for distance. Norm Cash broke the game wide open with a three-run homer (No. 9) in the fourth inning, with Don Demeter hitting No. 4, a two-run wallop in the sixth, and Bill Freehan adding a solo homer (No. 6) in the eighth when the Tigers were coasting home.

Wickersham, now 2-0, got his first decision of the season last Sunday when he worked 6 2/3 innings in relief against California Angels and beat them 8-4.

Manager Swift said Wickersham's performance against the Red Sox had earned him a starting rotation role with his next assignment the Washington Senators Monday.

he said happily in the Tiger dressing room.

The weatherman threw everything he had at the Tigers. The start of the game was delayed seven minutes by one storm and play was suspended in the second inning and again in the fifth for a total delay of 49 minutes.

A leadoff single by third baseman Rico Petrocelli, followed by a wild pitch and a base on balls gave the Red Sox two base runners in a hurry. A fast doubleplay and an infield out got him out of the jam with the Red Sox getting their only run of the day.

"I was just about ready to make a pitching change," said Tiger acting manager Bob Swift.

That was the only inning in which Wickersham got into real trouble as he scattered five hits, struck out six and walked only three.

The five Red Sox pitchers had trouble getting the ball over they gave up 10 walks and when they did the Tigers hit for distance. Norm Cash broke the game wide open with a three-run homer (No. 9) in the fourth inning, with Don Demeter hitting No. 4, a two-run wallop in the sixth, and Bill Freehan adding a solo homer (No. 6) in the eighth when the Tigers were coasting home.

Wickersham, now 2-0, got his first decision of the season last Sunday when he worked 6 2/3 innings in relief against California Angels and beat them 8-4.

British Pound Dropping, U.S. Balance Runs Red

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The British pound sterling is taking another drubbing just when the American balance of payments is running deeper into the red.

Both of these financial problems have flared up periodically since World War II. And both the dollar and the pound have been able to survive without too deep a scar. In fact, world monetary managers have worked out treatments that staunch the wounds.

ANALYSIS OF THE NEWS

But having both of the world's leading currencies under pressure at the same time — and particularly at this time of international uncertainty — could be more than just a passing worry.

The British pound is under selling pressure because Britain's economy is plagued by a shipping strike when the nation already was making little headway in its attempt to narrow its trade gap.

Britain's imports top its exports. And British production costs have been sending prices up and making their products less competitive in world markets.

The American balance of payments deficit is mounting just now because the Viet Nam war is siphoning off dollars at a time when U.S. exports are climbing slowly and U.S. imports are going overseas this year than last, and many more are going out than are returning.

European critics of American fiscal policies contend that the steep rise in prices here during the last year has helped boost the U.S. deficit, by dimming the attractiveness of American products in world markets. At the same time the fast expanding prosperity here has attracted more imports than ever.

In turn, the U.S. deficit can feed inflation in Europe by building up economic pressures there. All those surplus dollars in Europe make for affluence. And affluence usually is translated into higher prices and then still higher wages, and so on.

The big strain in the United States, the worried contend, could come next year as labor's demands increase. American labor can point to record profits and rising prices here as a reason for hefty wage scales.

18-Month Low
The British monetary problem is more immediate. Heavy selling of the pound sterling by Europeans has pushed its price down to an 18-month low.

American bankers feel that both this country and other world monetary centers will come to the aid of the Bank of England, if necessary, to support the market for the pound and thus ward off a showdown crisis.

The real problem, in Britain as in the United States, will be in holding down production costs and the prices of goods, and in building up exports and keeping imports in line.

Project MEMO Helps Students With Ambition

EAST LANSING (AP) — Michigan educators are trying to give a special stay-in-school boost to the student whose grades aren't tops, but who has the "glint in his eye" to succeed in life.

In an effort to make sure that student receives all the education he should, they are asking high school teachers to point him out for Project MEMO: "More Education, More Opportunity."

"In this age and stage, so many kids wonder whether anyone else cares," said Gordon A. Sabine, a vice president of Michigan State University. "We are proving that the teacher is very interested, knows the kids and understands them," he said.

Project MEMO, Sabine said, going to teachers, they are trying to reach students directly with advertising and newsletters.

Students Differ
There is no typical MEMO student, Sabine said.

"Many students may be equally eligible for different reasons," he said. "This is the beauty of it."

It's simply up to the high school teacher, he explained. "Do you have a youngster who isn't performing at the top of the class but who has tremendous drive and motivation to succeed? A boy or girl who has the 'glint in the eye' about whom you say, 'I know this one is going to make something of life'?"

The student may be wealthy or poor, Sabine said. He may not be thinking about more education because he can't afford it, thinks he can't afford it or never has been motivated to study more.

The boost may be toward college, community college, or trade school.

The project started this spring in just a few areas of the state, and "we've received very good response from teachers," Sabine said. "This is something they like to do, not something they regard as a chore. We received more names than we expected—about 1,500."

Next fall, he added, the project will be expanded to cover the whole state.
